

Terrence Harris: Transcript

I manage the sales and customer experience for another organization that impacted the retail branches and our alternative delivery channels such as online banking. Commerce Bank presented me with an opportunity to continue to take the experience I've learned as far as helping our customers, as they've continued to change how they bank.

Commerce Bank is a great organization with great people and the company stands for a great deal as far as helping our customers achieve their financial goals.

The most satisfying thing for me is really helping our customers.

At the end of the day, being able to go home at night knowing that I helped a customer either plan for retirement, buy a home, open a business, that is so important and that's something I can talk about for many years when I retire.

If you're someone who's focused on being successful with your performance, you're able to be a solid team player and you've got a strong work ethic, that will lead to success at Commerce.

Commerce is a great organization that's rooted in for over one hundred and fifty years, there's a significant commitment to our customers, and there's and there's a significant commitment to our employees continuing to grow and develop.

If you're excited about being able to grow and develop as an employee with the focus on customers
It'd be a great place to work.